BRIBE CHARGE "LIE," SENATOR DAVIS STATES

Never Lobbied Against Sugar Tariff, Pennsylvania Legislator Says.

SPEAKS TO COMMITTEE

Demands Thorough Inquiry Before Adjournment of Congress.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—Waiving senatorial immunity, Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania denied before the senate lobby committee today he has ever lobbied for or against a sugar tariff or received money for lobbying.

The Pennsylvania Republican said if he was the one referred to in published reports that a senator had received from $100,000 to $150,000 from a domestic sugar company while the tariff act was under consideration, it was "a contemptible lie."

He holds stocks worth from $50,000 to $100,000 in the Celotex company, which makes board out of by products of sugar cane. He testified he had never discussed the sugar tariff with B. G. Dahlberg, president of the company.

Senator Davis made no explanation in appearing before the committee of why he assumed he was the man referred to in the published story.

However he told the committee, "I heard these rumblings about me last fall and I spent considerable time then in trying to run down the source so that the Nye committee could investigate it."

Davis read a prepared statement after taking the stand. It said: "If the charges which were read in the congressional record yesterday from a metropolitan newspaper refer to me, I most emphatically state that I never lobbied for or against any sugar tariff measure; that I have never spoken to anybody in congress or anyone in government service about putting a duty on sugar; that I never received any money or anything of value for any such alleged service.

"It is a contemptible lie, and I am glad that it is out in the open, so that the matter can be thoroughly investigated and the falsehood killed once for all.

"The charge is a serious one. The senate and the public are entitled to promptly know all the facts; to condemn if true; to absolve if untrue.

"Congress will soon adjourn. I earnestly urge you in behalf of the citizens of the state of Pennsylvania, our nation, my family, and myself to fully inquire into the accusation and make your conclusions public before the adjournment of this congress."

All members of the committee were present except Senator Borah of Idaho.

Demands for a prompt investigation were made yesterday by Borah and other speakers.

HOPE OF IMMIGRANT PUBLISHER IS FAILURE

Heirs of Joseph Pulitzer Request Permission To Sell New York World.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—The effort of an immigrant genius to build a newspaper that would stand forever as a monument to his ideals seemed today to have failed.

The three New York Worlds—morning, evening and Sunday—were for sale. The heirs of Joseph Pulitzer, famed publisher, were in surrogate's court awaiting decision as to whether they might sell those properties to save them from collapse.

Surrogate Foley had to decide whether the Pulitzer sons—Herbert, Joseph, Jr., and Ralph—might sell the names, good will and press association memberships to the Scripps-Howard newspaper interests for a sum estimated at $5,000,000.

The price, the court was told by Roy W. Howard, chairman of the board of Scripps-Howard and president of the New York Evening Telegram, is the highest ever offered for a newspaper in this country, considering that only good will and title are involved.

The papers, it was testified at the opening of the surrogate's hearing last night, have been losing $811,000 annually for the last five years.

Max D. Steuer, counsel for Paul D. Block, publisher of a group of newspapers, appeared at the hearing and said his client was willing to offer $500,000 more than the price under consideration. A conference of counsel following the night hearing resulted in decision to give Steuer until 11 a. m. today to make a concrete offer.

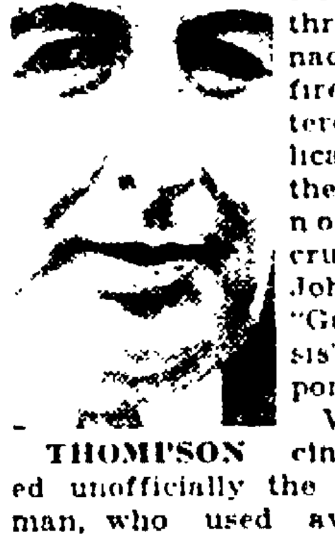
THOMPSON AGAIN VICTOR IN CHICAGO

"Cowboy Mayor" Renominated, but Hard Fight Is Ahead in April Election.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—Mayor William Hale Thompson, pastmaster of the spectacular in politics, was on top of the political heap in Chicago temporarily at least, today.

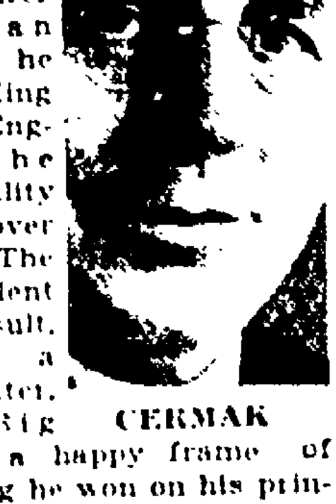
"Big Bill," sometimes referred to as "the builder," Chicago's "cowboy mayor," with hat tilted at a rakish angle, rode to victory through a tornado of political fireworks in yesterday's Republican primary for the mayoralty nomination, crushing Judge John H. Lyle, "Gangster Nemesis" and other opponents.



THOMPSON

When 2,987 precincts had reported unofficially the master showman, who used aviation, talking pictures and a jackass parade to bolster his campaign, had a total of 296,242 votes compared to 228,401 for Judge Lyle, who had promised the voter he would make things hot for gangsters if he was elected mayor.

On the basis of the same tabulation Alderman A. F. Albert had 99,506, G. K. Schmidt 11,223, and Eugene McCaffery, 913.



CERMAK

These figures gave the man who once said he would "bust King George of England on the snoot" a plurality of 67,841 over Judge Lyle. The latter was silent about the result, but promised a statement later, whereas "Big Bill" was in a happy frame of mind, declaring he won on his principles—"drive internationalism and prohibition out of the Republican party."

Hard Fight Ahead

Although the 62 year-old bombastic three-term mayor of Chicago, rated by some political prophets not so long ago as losing ground in politics, came back with a bang yesterday, there was a possibility that he would face stiff opposition in the April 7 election, with Anton J. Cermak, who was nominated by the Democrats virtually without opposition. Complete unofficial returns gave Cermak 235,260 against 9,829 for John B De Voney, his lone opponent.

But "Big Bill" smiled and indicated he was not worrying about the election. He had been making from 8 to 10 speeches a day during the hectic primary campaign and apparently was willing to sit at his desk, take his victory and approaching election fight calmly.

The heat of the primary campaign cooled off into a quiet and peaceful election and although the unofficial Republican and Democratic total of 881,374 was a record for a primary, there was not a single major disturbance to mar the day.

TAKE UP PLANS FOR HOSPITAL

Marion County Commissioners, Doctors at Bellefontaine Meeting.

5 COUNTIES REPRESENTED

Proposed Sanatorium Would Treat Tubercular Cases in District.

The county commissioners and three doctors represented Marion and Marion county in a meeting in Bellefontaine today in the interests of a proposed tuberculosis sanatorium for this district of five counties.

Commissioners O. C. McCurdy, W. M. King and O. W. Kinnamon, Dr. N. Sifritt, city and county health commissioner, Dr. F. E. Mahla, president of the Marion County Anti-Tuberculosis League and also head of the Marion Academy of Medicine, and Dr. Kenneth Smith, county coroner and secretary of the Marion Academy of Medicine, attended the meeting.

The city and the Marion Kiwanis club were not represented. Kiwanis clubs of the five interested counties are sponsoring a movement to erect a sanatorium in this district.

Counties interested in the proposed project are Marion, Hardin, Logan, Union and Delaware. The hospital would care for tuberculosis patients from these counties.

The officials from this county took with them statistics showing the number of tuberculosis patients handled annually in this county and the average cost of treating these patients.

The Bellefontaine session was called by Addison C. Johnson of Kenton, chairman of the Kiwanis committee actively sponsoring the project.

PARTY HEADS LIKELY TO SUPPORT RASKOB

Al Smith, John Davis, James M. Cox Reported as Favoring Wet Plank.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—The New York Times today said the last three Democratic candidates for president would support John J. Raskob, chairman of the national committee, in a move to commit the party to a wet program.

Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis and James M. Cox, The Times said, would attend the national committee meeting March 5, to champion a resolution declaring for flat repeal of the Eighteenth amendment or for the return of the liquor traffic to the states.

All three, The Times pointed out, have expressed dissatisfaction with the present prohibition laws and have urged repeal or modification in some form. In the event that the committee adopts such a resolution it will have to be adopted by the ensuing convention before it is inserted in the party platform.

CAPONE APPEARS IN CHICAGO COURT

Gang Czar Dodges Crowd To Be Arraigned on Contempt Charge.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—Alphonse Capone, czar of Chicago gangs, slipped into the federal building a half-hour before his scheduled arraignment on a contempt of court citation today and eluded the besieging throng of people who clogged the sidewalks about every entrance.

Capone, accompanied only by his attorney, William F. Waugh, went directly to the courtroom of U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson and evaded the battery of cameramen and reporters who were watching for him.

It was his first appearance in a Chicago court for a year, and he was in jovial mood. He laughed at the widely published reports that he had returned from Florida to marshall his forces in the primary and aldermanic elections yesterday.

"Judge Lyle made an issue of me, and the people answered him," he said.

Capone, awaiting the opening of federal court, said he was ready to answer the charge in criminal court. He came back Friday, he said, to meet the contempt citation and any other charge held against him. He will surrender to the county or city officers when his federal court appearance is ended.

OHIO DRY LAW REPEAL PLAN UP TO HOUSE

Legislators Due To Vote Next Week on Referendum Proposal.

APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

Marshall Proposal for National Repeal Move Discussed in Senate Hearing.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25—The Ohio house of representatives probably will vote early next week on whether it wishes to call a referendum vote on state prohibition.

By a ten to seven vote, the house judiciary committee last night recommended the Nippert resolution proposing repeal of the state prohibition amendment for adoption. It will be reported back to the house today and probably will be made a special order of business for either next Tuesday or Wednesday.

While the house committee was voting to recommend adoption of the Nippert resolution proposing repeal of state prohibition, the senate judiciary committee was wrestling with the Marshall resolution petitioning congress to call a national constitutional convention to consider repeal of federal prohibition. No action was taken by the senate committee, however.

Party Lines Vanish

Party lines were cast aside by the committee in voting on the Nippert resolution. Six Republicans and four Democrats voted to recommend adoption while three Republicans and four Democrats opposed it.

Representative Crowe of Lawrence explained to the committee that he reserved the right to oppose the resolution on the floor of the house, but was voting to place it before the house because he believed it would receive consideration of the entire body.

Opposition to the proposal of Senator L. L. Marshall, Republican of Cleveland, petitioning congress to call a national constitutional convention to consider repeal of federal prohibition, was based upon the promise that prohibition has been successful and should be retained in the federal constitution. This theory was supported by Mrs. William H. Alexander of Columbus, representing the Women's National committee for law enforcement; Senators F. W. Hall of Guernsey county, and J. E. Barnes of Columbus. All had opposed the Nippert resolution before the house committee.

Leaders of Advocates

Proponents of the Marshall resolution included Captain W. H. Stayton, of Baltimore, chairman of the board of directors of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Rev. John Malick of Cincinnati, Unitarian minister, Senator Marshall and Mrs. Mary Nolan of Columbus. They contended prohibition has been a failure and that the people should be permitted, through referendum, to say whether it shall be continued.

4 KILLED AS TRAIN STRIKES OPEN BRIDGE

Engine and Combination Car of Fast Southern Train Plunge into Water.

By International News Service.

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 25—At least four persons were killed when the locomotive and combination baggage and club car of the Pan-American special, crack all-Pullman train of the Louisville & Nashville railroad plunged through an open drawbridge into 30 feet of water here early today.

The known dead: Arthur R. Ingram, engineer, Montgomery, Ala.; J. Nick Vaughan, baggage master, Montgomery, Ala.; Ezekiah Crumpton, Negro fireman; L. Wood, Negro porter.

The engineer apparently was dead of heart failure as the crack express sped by red lights and hurtled through the open drawbridge into the water, officials of the L. & N. said.

The Pullman following the combination car was partially hanging over the water in a precarious position.

Officials said that the train must have been traveling slowly or all of the cars would have probably gone over. There were said to have been seven cars in the train.

Leaving a local hospital at 1 a. m. today McKay stepped into his car. Two men arose in the rear seat and covered him with revolvers.

BOSTON SCENE OF OUTBREAK

Communist Unemployment Day Speaker Halted and Clash Follows.

PROGRAM IS WORLDWIDE

Authorities Prevent Serious Trouble in Most Places.

By The Associated Press.

BOSTON, Feb. 25—Disorder broke out on Boston common today when a second attempt was made within the month to stage an unauthorized unemployment demonstration. A throng estimated at more than 10,000 gathered about the Parkman bandstand use of which was denied by a police guard.

Violence began when a man, mounting the shoulders of friends, attempted to address the crowd. He was pulled down by some of the 250 police detailed to the common.

Police had difficulty fighting their way through the crowd with their prisoner, exchanging many blows with those who sought to impede them. The prisoner was the same whose attempt to speak precipitated rioting on the common Feb. 10, when 13 persons, including two ministers, were arrested. Today's demonstration, as on Feb. 10 was called by the unemployed council of Boston, which is said to be affiliated with the Communist party.

The first arrest was followed by several others all accompanied by brisk scrimmages between the demonstrants and the police.

Rioting in Europe

Riots occurred in a dozen European cities today as the jobless observed "international unemployment day" but police were prepared in advance and no where did the demonstrations get out of hand.

There were speeches to factory workers in Moscow, a roundup of 75 Communist suspects in Paris, and riots of minor proportions in Berlin and its suburbs. The national guard was out in French factory towns and special precautions were taken in southeastern and central Europe, where these occasions have made trouble in the past.

Reports from various cities where the days was observed indicated that less than two-score had been injured in street fights with police.

Four News Photographers Held During Funeral of Irene Schroeder

ATTEMPTED TO FILM RITES

Eastern Press Representatives Held in Jail Until Party Disperses.

By The Associated Press.

BELLAIRE, O., Feb. 25—Irene Schroeder, executed early Monday with Glenn Dague for the slaying of a Pennsylvania state policeman, was buried in Rose Hill cemetery near here shortly after 7 a. m. today while four photographers for eastern newspapers cooled their heels in the city bastile.

The photographers, Charles Hoff of the New York Mirror, Arthur Chapman of the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph, W. L. Rhodes of the New York Journal and Ed Brewer of the New York Daily News were arrested by Sheriff Howard A. Duff when they attempted to take pictures of the funeral cortege. Reporters who accompanied the photographers were not arrested. The camera men were released after being held in city jail about 40 minutes.

When the Schroeder funeral party reached the cemetery on the outskirts of the city limits they were greeted by the news and picture men. A hasty call by relatives of the woman brought the city police but on protest of the newspapermen, the police officers summoned the sheriff.

Although the news writers were not molested, the camera men and their cameras were taken to the city building and held until the burial services were completed.

It had been announced that Mrs. Schroeder would be buried this afternoon, but when the newspaper men received a report that the funeral party was leaving Wheeling, W. Va., across the river about six o'clock, they hurried to the grave yard and were on hand to greet the party.

Photograph Grave

Later the news photographers visited the cemetery and took pictures of the grave in which the body of Irene was interred.

Sheriff Duff said he took the photographers into custody to prevent bloodshed. He added that relatives of the dead woman demanded that the photographers be kept away from the cemetery, and if they were not "there would be a killing." The principal protestor was John Crawford, father of Irene, Duff said.

Still Arguing

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 25—The president has what is called the "pocket veto." If a bill is passed, it comes to him, and he has 10 days to carry it in his pocket and think it over, but Congress hasn't got 10 days to go, so he can't "pocket veto" any more, for his pockets are full now.

Trio of Robbers Get $27,173 in Daring Attack on Nebraska Bank.

By The Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., Feb. 25—Five bandits armed with sawed off shotguns and wearing handkerchief masks over their faces, held up Norman W. Burgmeier, manager, and eight employes of the Central branch of the Union Trust company in the heart of the business district this morning and escaped with between $18,000 and $20,000.

The holdup came within 10 minutes after the bank had opened. The three men entered the bank, while two companions waited in the machine at the curb and forced the bank employes into a rear room. While one bandit stood guard of the employes, the other two scooped up all available cash.

Taking off their masks, the bandits walked leisurely from the bank, entered the automobile and drove away. Police, in an armored car, arrived in response to a call, in time to see the bandit car speed away and started in pursuit but lost trace of the bandit automobile.

The holdup was the most daring staged here within recent months and since two bandits were killed in an attempt at robbery of a branch bank in the southern part of the city.

Daring Early Morning Holdup in Nebraska Yields $27,173.

By The Associated Press

HASTINGS, Neb., Feb. 25—Three robbers held up the Hastings National bank today, bound and gagged 13 employes, including three women, took $27,173, and escaped.

The trio entered the bank about 6 a. m. through a rear window. As bank employes arrived, each was bound, gagged and taken to the basement. Thirteen persons had arrived and were bound and gagged before 8:45 a. m. when the time lock permitted the opening of the vault.

Several bank officials were forced to accompany the men to the vault, where the robbers scooped up $27,173 in gold, silver and currency. The robbers loaded the loot into a new sedan and escaped.

Not a shot was fired during the robbery and not a person was injured during the two hours and 50 minutes the three bandits were in command of the bank.

MOVES TO ELIMINATE "LAME DUCK" MEET

Senate Rejects House Plan, but Agreement Is Predicted.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—Prediction was made in the senate today by Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, of an early agreement between the senate and house over their differences on the constitutional amendment fixing a new time for meetings of congress.

The senate formally rejected the Gifford resolution adopted yesterday by the house as a substitute for the Norris constitutional amendment.

Senators Norris and Borah, Republicans, and Walsh, Democrat of Montana, were named conferees to meet with the house in adjusting the differences.

The constitutional amendment as voted by both branches would abolish the session of an old congress after a new congress has been elected, known as the "lame duck" sessions.

House action came with Speaker Longworth on the floor in behalf of the measure. He it was who insisted the second session be limited. The resolution was adopted 289 to 93, the majority following Longworth again away from Republican Leader Tilson, who pleaded with the house not to tinker with the constitution.

If finally approved the amendment will go to the state legislatures for the usual process of ratification. It would become effective as soon as 36 of the 48 states have ratified. Thereafter this would be the congressional schedule: Election in November each even year, as at present; first session convenes Jan. 4 of following odd year, term unlimited. Second session convenes Dec. 1, odd year, adjourns May 4, even year.

In addition the amendment would have the President and vice president inducted Jan. 24 following the quadrennial November election, instead of March 4. Provision also is included for emergency election of a president if the President-elect should die.

SEES BRIGHTER ONION OUTLOOK

Kenton Man Discusses Prospects in Article on Hardin County Situation.

Special to The Star.

KENTON, Feb. 25 — Brighter prospects are seen for Ohio onion growers as a result of the new tariff by Carl D. Varvel of Kenton, a graduate of Ohio State university, writing in the Ohio Journal of Science

Should onion imports be sharply reduced under the increased tariff rate of 2½ cents a pound, as is confidently expected, Varvel says, "the acreage on the Scioto marsh should undoubtedly rise to former high levels" Ohio is one of the most important centers of the domestic onion industry and profits have been small for the last four years due to foreign competition and climatic conditions

Varvel, who is a graduate student in geography, describes the Scioto marsh, a bog soil tract in the western part of Hardin county, as the largest of such areas in the glaciated region of Ohio. It covers 16,000 acres and is believed to be one of the largest continuous onion producing areas in North America.

On an average about 3,500 acres of onions are harvested there. In recent years this has diminished largely because of unfavorable climatic conditions. YOU WILL LIKE GOLDEN RULE SERVICE

"Our customers are our friends," Mr. E. Schieber stated recently while speaking of the remarkable service his hatchery stands ready and willing to render to those who buy Golden Rule chicks. When you book orders for Golden Rule chicks, you enter into a pleasant friendship with poultry experts who are interested in your efforts and your success. It includes an insurance of 100% livability for the first two weeks and also gives you free personal services of a competent man in case you have sickness among your birds. Mr Schieber believes in the principles of the golden rule, and makes it his personal business to see that these principles are fully carried out with those who buy Golden Rule chicks. Do not make a final choice or book your chick orders until you have read the new 1931 deluxe Golden Rule catalog. It's a dandy. Address Golden Rule Hatchery, 214 W. Liberty Street, Bucyrus, Ohio. A call at the hatchery would be well worth your while. If you can't call in person, phone and they will send you a catalog.—Adv.

HARDING LOSES CLOSE GAME TO SHELBY

TWO CHARITY SCORES DEFEAT LOCALS 27-25

Presidents Outplay Whippets; Vestal Performs Brilliantly for Bohyer-Coached Team.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

TWO successful free throws with less than a minute of time remaining for play constituted the margin of victory for Shelby High school over the Harding Presidents last night in a bitterly fought fray on the Shelby court. The final score was 27 to 25.

Harding put up a great battle against the Whippet aggregation, outplaying the Young coached aggregation from the start to the finish. Jim Miller and Gus Culbertson, usual ace performers of Shelby were stopped cold most of the time although it was Miller's two charity tosses that won the game for the Whippets.

Shelby opened the game by taking a single point lead over Harding which Smith promptly tied up with a free throw. Shelby then loosed an offensive which bewildered Harding for a time and threatened to leave the Presidents far in arrears before the end of the first period.

Away Went Ling!

After Shelby had run the count to 7-1 Harding took time to get organized and from this time events happened in lightning flashes. Jack Ling, Harding's elongated pivot man set out on a scoring spree that carried Harding from six points in arrears to a two point lead. Vestal, Morgan and Smith also contributed points in the first half spurt that put the President ahead 17-14 at the mid-game mark.

Shelby's defenses clamped down on the Harding point-getters in the third period, holding the Presidents to a quartet of markers while the Whippets were scoring nine. This was the only period in which Harding was outscored.

Morgan and Vestal turned in a quartet of points toward the middle of the final frame to put Harding ahead and give the Presidents what looked like a fairly safe lead. With something less than two minutes to play Milliron slipped through the Harding defense for a sucker shot that deadlocked the count.

A Plenty Tough Break

In the desperate battle underneath the Shelby basket for possession of the ball Dick Morgan fouled Jim Miller, the latter promptly turning himself into the hero of the hour in Shelby by tossing both shots through the net. Shelby partisans, sensing victory, turned loose a veritable bedlam of cheering as Miller looped his first shot and then followed with another.

The entire Harding team played far better basketball than in the majority of games this season although erratic passes from backcourt into scoring territory cost the Presidents points on several occasions. Freddy Vestal played a brilliant floor game for Harding, breaking up countless Whippet plays on defense and working the ball in on offense for numerous Harding points. Bob Smith paired with Vestal as the outstanding Harding player although the rest of the team turned in good performances.

The Reserve team of Harding completely outclassed the Shelby second stringers in a preliminary game, winning 25 to 7. Harding led the game all the way.

British Middleweight To Meet Jackie Fields

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—A contemplated bout between Len Harvey, British middleweight champion, and Jackie Fields of Los Angeles, former welterweight king, will be held in Madison Square Garden March 20.

Fields, suspended last week, was reinstated yesterday when he presented evidence before the state commission to show that Jack Kearns was not his manager. Kearns is in disfavor with the commission.

Tilden Loses First Set, but Wins Next Two

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25—Losing the first set 6-0 to Karel Kozeluh, foremost European professional, William Tilden took the next two sets, 6-2 and 6-3, in a fast exhibition of tennis here last night.

It was the sixth of a series he is playing for the world's professional indoor championship.

Francis T. Hunter lost to Emmet Pare in singles, 6-3, and 6-2.

Kozeluh and Pare doubled together in the closing matches to defeat Tilden and Hunter, 6-4, and 6-2.

ENTIRE SQUAD PRESENT

By The Associated Press.

AVALON, Cal., Feb. 25—Practice for the Chicago Cubs was put on a production basis today, with the entire squad assembled and ready for work. Members of the second squad, infielders, and outfielders, reached Catalina island yesterday, but were not ordered to work by Manager Hornsby, who let them watch the Gabby Hartnets beat the Pat Malones, 6 to 2, in a short contest.

TAKING IT EASY

By The Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 25—Chicago White Sox batterymen were hoping that Manager Donie Bush would let them use bats today, instead of restricting their practice to tossing the ball around and chasing flies. Bush has decreed that the only bat shall be a fungo club, to be used by himself, Coach Barney Kelly or Pat Page, former Indiana university football coach, who is visiting the training camp.

PRESBIES WIN CLOSE GAME WITH BAPTISTS 21-19 TO CINCH TITLE

Overtime Period Necessary To Decide Winner; Epworth, United Brethren Victorious.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN basketball team clinched the championship of the Y-Church league last night by gaining a close 21 to 19 decision over the Trinity Baptist team. The game was one of three played on the Y. M. C. A. court. Waldo Lutherans suffered an unexpected reverse at the hands of the United Brethren five 27 to 20 and Epworth M. E. was winner over Central Christian No. 1, 21 to 20.

Trinity Baptist threw considerable of a scare into the ranks of the Presbies before succumbing to the league winners in an overtime period. With the exception of Roush, the Presbyterians were effectively stopped. Roush with 10 points was the only scorer to get any thing like his usual quota of points. Sage was next with four. Wainfor led the Baptists with eight markers.

Epworth Winner

Epworth and Christian No. 1 put on a stiff battle which finally went to the Methodists by a single point margin. Epworth led the game all the way although the Christians threatened seriously to assume the lead late in the final period. Snyder led the scorers with nine points.

United Brethren pulled the only really big upset of the evening by handing the Waldo crew a surprise seven point beating. Romine went on a scoring spree to give the U. B. team 13 points. Di Tuttle, a guard, slipped through for six markers for the U. B. Conwell led the Waldo team with seven points.

Intermediate Scores

Scores in the Intermediate Sunday school league are as follows: Calvary 59, First Presbyterian 20; Christian 26, Trinity Baptist 18; Forest Lawn 15, First Reformer 14, and Epworth 21, Fite Memorial 9.

RIXEY ONLY ABSENTEE

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 25—The veteran side wheeler, Eppa Rixey, who will begin his twentieth year in major league baseball, was the only Cincinnati Red pitcher absent today for the batterymen's workout. The left hander was expected soon, however, as was Manager Dan Howley, who planned to bring with him a young right handed pitcher, Ken Gordy, of the University of Florida.

Bad weather hurt Stetson university's football receipts this year, so the deficit was made up by giving a play.

Sixteen pitchers are included in the 33 players the New York Yankees will take to St. Petersburg, Fla., for spring training this year.

ASHLAND WINS DEFENSIVE GAME; GALION EASILY DEFEATS BUCYRUS

Coach Rosie Starn's Ashland Hilltoppers assured themselves of nothing less than a tie for the title in the N. C. O. league last night by winning a tight defensive battle from Mansfield 14 to 12. The least Ashland can do now is tie for the crown. In case the Ashlanders defeat Shelby Friday night in the last game of the year the championship will be in sole possession of Ashland. A Shelby victory Friday, coupled with a Galion victory over Harding would give Galion a tie for the honors with Ashland.

Ashland played its usual kind of basketball last night against the Tygers, stalling the ball whenever it held a one point lead. Mansfield battled valiantly to gain possession of the ball and make some kind of a game out of it but was unable to break up the hilltoppers stalling. The Murphymen outplayed the Ashland team throughout the game.

Shots at the hoop were unusually few. Mansfield is reported to have had fewer than 30 while Ashland had even less than that. Mansfield had difficulty in locating the basket on sucker shots.

Galion had little difficulty in downing the hapless Bucyrus Redmen, scoring almost at will to win the game 37 to 13. The McClintock-coached outfit provided little opposition for the scoring antics of Hoekstra & Co. Hoekstra turned in a great performance at center for Galion.

Weather Stalls Bout of Walker and Risko

By The Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25—Weather permitting, "Pa" Stribling hoped to marshal his fistic forces tonight for a heavyweight show topped by a 10-round bout between Mickey Walker, middleweight champion and Johnny Risko of Cleveland. The card was postponed from last night because of rain.

The prospects were for clearing weather this afternoon and favorable, if not actually moon-lit and balmy atmosphere for the evening.

Promoter Stribling hoped to go over his "top" of a $50,000 gate for the show, which will include exhibitions by the forthcoming heavyweight title rivals, Max Schmeling and W. L. (Young) Stribling.

Walker scaled only 165½ yesterday while Risko tipped the beam at 194 and thus had a 28½ pound advantage over the middleweight champion.

Columbus Promoter Plans Bi-Weekly Fight Cards at Steam Shovel Gym.

Marion is to again see the attempted rejuvenation of professional boxing. Frank Dean, Columbus promoter, is planning to transfer his activities to Marion within the near future and stage bi-weekly matches in the Steam Shovel gym.

The first of the leather-slinging programs will be offered at the Shovel next Monday night. The complete card has not been announced but it is expected that Babe Beck of Dayton and Eddie Dickey of Columbus will occupy the rival corners in the main go. Six bouts of varying lengths will be presented. The main go will be a ten rounder. The principals are light heavyweights.

Dean is planning to transfer his Queensbury athletic club to Marion from Columbus.

Schaaf Battles Negro To Take Fight Decision

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, battered Dynamite Jackson, Los Angeles Negro, to win the decision in a 10-round engagement here tonight.

Jackson was unable to shake the easterner with his heavy right to the head. The sturdy Bostonian cut Jackson badly about the face. The Negro's eyes were nearly closed and he bled from the lips and nose. He took a bruising attack on the body.

Jackson rallied in the tenth and stood off Schaaf for a draw in that round. Schaaf won six rounds, Jackson took the fifth and the others were even.

Gentlemen:

I am very glad to endorse your advertising campaign which so effectively cooperates with many non-commercial organizations seeking to fight disease.

Your advertisements warn against the danger to health in the "Spit-tipping" method of cigar manufacture and the affront to decency in such methods. You are thus helping awaken the public to the ever existent danger in spitting wherever this nuisance may occur.

Public health organizations have for years felt the need of such cooperation a commercial institutions may give in stressing the danger to health in such practices.

If publication of this letter will be of any use to you please be assured of my full permission to so use it over my signature.

Very truly yours,

STOCK PRICES IN DOWNTURN

Excessive Bullishness Results in Profit Taking, Forces Shares Lower.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb 25—The stock market spilled over again today, as it did a week ago when bullishness became too violent.

Utility and amusement shares turned decidedly weak, and large scale profit taking appeared throughout the list. Toward mid-afternoon some rallying tendencies appeared. Mid-week business statistics were in the main mildly constructive, but the erratic character of yesterday's upward movement topping off an advance uninterrupted for five consecutive sessions led to the conviction in professional trading circles that the list was ripe for a corrective reaction.

Heaviness in the initial transactions was temporarily overcome for a time in the morning by vigorous bidding up of the merchandising issues, particularly the mail orders, but by early afternoon losses of 2 to 5 points were numerous, and Auburn was off more than 7.

Further expansion in electric power production for the week ended Feb 21, and a small gain in freight car loadings for the week ended Feb. 14, were other moderately cheering aspects of the mid-week statistics.

Weekly petroleum statistics, however, were again discouraging.

Credit conditions were about unchanged, although call money was a little scarcer at 1 per cent outside than it has been of late. Foreign news was regarded as constructive.

Fancy cauliflower shipped in from Florida is retailing here between 25 and 50 cents a head. The nicer heads are large and more expensive than those offered here last week.

With the local apple market rather hard up for select fruit, market men have imported several cases of individually wrapped apples from Washington state. These sell at 10 cents a pound or three pounds for 25 cents. Most of them are the Delicious variety, and are suitable for eating.

Butter and egg prices were unchanged this morning.

YANKS LIKE BIG MEN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 25—It appears the New York Yankees will have this year not only the tallest pitcher in the majors but the one with the greatest gross tonnage as well.

Jim Weaver, from Baltimore, stands six feet and seven inches with or without sox, while Walter Brown, former Cleveland pitcher, sends the weight indicator around to 235 pounds.

GRAIN PRICES MOVE HIGHER

Wheat Responds to Stronger Quotations in Canadian Markets.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—Responsive to comparative strength of Winnipeg wheat quotations grain prices averaged higher early today. Snows in Canada were reported insufficient to do any material good, and numerous export bids were reported just under the market at Winnipeg. Chicago wheat opened ⅛c off to ⅛ up, and subsequently scored moderate advances. Corn started at ⅛c decline to ⅛ gain and later rose all around.

Wheat traders gave attention to dispatches from the Paris international grain conference indicating that central and eastern European grain surpluses were relatively small, and that Great Britain was safeguarding Canadian and Australian export outlets. Less notice was taken of assertions that United States farm board allies were offering wheat abroad. Minneapolis and St Louis messages said government sponsored agencies were continuing to absorb wheat. Kansas City reports said farm board allies were moving out considerable wheat taken on December contracts and were making room for fresh arrivals.

Corn advances were influenced by falling off in the volume of receipts. Primary arrivals totaled but 711,000 bushels compared with 1,258,000 a week ago and 1,081,000 at this time last year. Chicago had 110 cars, a week ago 105, and a year ago 77. Houses with western connections were fairly active buyers of oats. Provisions reflected upturns of hog values.

Not all of the 18 persons who took the first aid instruction at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. cafeteria, in charge of Dr. Otis Marshall of the National Red Cross, were present to receive their certifications last night.

The certificates were distributed by Earl Smart, chairman of the Marion county chapter, who ,at the same time congratulated the instructors on their work.

A short talk by Fire Chief T. J. McFarland followed. Chief McFarland pointed out that the 10-day period of instruction in first aid work had been well worth while if the work can be carried to other persons in Marion factories and shops

2 ACCIDENTS FATAL HERE IN JANUARY

Workers Lose 12,845 Days as Result of Mishaps, Report Shows.

Marion county had two fatal industrial accidents during January, and with 92 others of less serious nature caused a total time loss in the county of 12,854 days according to a report issued today by the state industrial commission.

During December the county had 89 accidents but none was fatal and consequently only 1,222 working days were lost.

One of January's accidents caused permanent partial disability, 16 resulted in over seven days of lost time, 11 caused a loss of less than seven days while 64 required medical treatment with no resultant time loss.

Despite the fact that 1,854 fewer accident and occupational disease claims were filed with the commission during the month, an increase in fatal acidents gave an increase of 154 184 days in the time loss for the month as compared with December.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Feb. 26

THIS may prove to be a day of rather surprising developments judging by the lunar as well as solar aspect to Uranus, the orb of the sudden, precipitate and revolutionary. Abrupt and decisive changes or journeys may be expected and these should be financially prosperous as well as bring desired promotion, preferment or favors from those in places of power and authority. But a word of caution against rash or impetuous acts and speech.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of important changes or travel which should have a far-reaching effect on the fortunes and enhance the stability of some unusual projects or plans. With care as to rash and impetuous acts and words all should thrive and promote the best interests and personal welfare. A child born on this day should be talented in original or unusual directions and should make good success in life through its adaptability and adventurous spirit.

Origin of O. W. U. Traced to Old-Time Inn's Failure

DELAWARE, O., Feb. 25—The "school they built in the woods" soon will celebrate the eighty-ninth anniversary of its founding.

It is now situated in a modern little city, and is one of the most heavily endowed and prominent universities in Ohio, state of colleges.

When the first Ohio Wesleyan university was chartered on March 7, 1842, all roads did not lead to Delaware. The railroad itself, which did not touch here, was a novelty—a snorting little mechanical imposter an upstart of steam and smoke, viewed with askance by the few who had seen it in action. Dense wooded country surrounded this locality. Wesleyan was the child of a hotel, for it was first thought that because of the natural beauty of this locality, an inn would be a huge success. Inaccessibility, and paucity of transportation, made such an inn a failure, and the property was given to the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, and the health resort, which had been erected, became a headquarters for the new university.

The entire college at first was quartered in the Mansion House, now almost a century old, and still standing—one of the landmarks of Delaware and the university. Academic work was actually begun here in 1844. What had been the drawing room of the hotel became the first classroom.

"Those were the good old days," sigh students at modern Ohio Wesleyan university, as they scan the old records and ledgers. They know whereof they speak.

Board was $1.25 a week, fees $30 a year, room rent $1 a quarter and laundry 50 cents a dozen.

Great-grandfathers went through an entire year on what their descendants now spend during a single month. Great old days!

From an original enrollment of 18, the student body has grown to 1,860. It now has an official value of $8,726,000.

Cost of Operating Congress Figured at $1,400 an Hour

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—Every time the hands of the clocks in the house and senate chambers move forward one hour the treasury is out about $1,400.

William Tyler Page, clerk of the house, submitted figures to the census committee today showing the cost per day of sessions of congress on an eight-hour basis would be about $11,000.

"It has been computed," he said, "that daily sessions average five hours. This basis, however, would hardly be a fair basis upon which to make a computation of the cost per day inasmuch as expenses cover all activities regardless of whether a daily session is held or not.

"Therefore, an eight-hour day basis would perhaps be fair. Upon this basis the expenditures per day would be in the case of the senate, based upon the appropriations for the present fiscal year, exclusive of deficiencies, $1,010 per hour, or $8,086 per day.

The committee asked this information in its study of plans to incerase the house membership.

UNEMPLOYED QUIET HERE

Expected Parade To City Hall Fails To Materialize.

International unemployment day was expected to pass with no [illegible] here, although Marion has an [illegible] organization of the unemployed.

Reports that a parade would be staged during the day were not given credence by members of the organization. City officials were of the opinion that no demonstration would be made here.

A parade was anticipated by many persons following a mass meeting in the Central labor union hall Sunday afternoon. During that meeting, C. B. Cowan of Cleveland, a Communist and district organizer of the unemployed, told of parades and public demonstrations in other cities and suggested that similar demonstrations might be held here when the membership of the local council of unemployed had been swelled.

All parades in Marion must be staged under a permit issued from the mayor's office. Officials said this morning that such a permit likely would be refused.

Police Chief W. E. Marks would not make any statement as to the probable action of police in the event the group would attempt a parade without a permit.

BY THE WAY, how strage are contrasts in history! By the Nigger Head mountain range, that was Mrs. McPherson's guiding cloud of smoke and pillar of fire, Pancho Villa, the powerful Mexican bandit, came marching to the American border, on his way, as he thought, to conquer the state of Sonora.

But Sonora is a business state, believes in mines, farms, cattle, factories, good roads, not at all in bandits. The home of former President Calles is here in Agua Prieta, and here Villa met his match.

An arrangement between Mexico and the United States, permitting troops of either country to cross the border at any time when chasing Apaches, made the extermination possible. Also the capture of their big chief, Geronimo. United States soldiers got him on Mexican soil.

If you weep for the poor Apaches, not one left alive. Yguacio Soto, president of the Agua Prieta bank, will not weep with you. Apaches caught his grandfather, long ago, made him walk in his bare feet through cactus, after removing all the skin from the soles of his feet, then threw him over a cliff.

All of Senor Don Ygnacio Sofo's sympathy for Apaches could easily pass through the eye of a needle.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25 — The senate judiciary committee was prepared today to ask an opinion from Attorney General Gilbert Bettman on the constitutionality of a proposal to elect Ohio's two additional congressmen from the state at large in 1932.

Decision to request an opinion was reached last night when the committee began consideration of Senator L. L. Marshall's bill for a reapportionment of the state to provide for 24 instead of 22 congressmen in compliance with the 1930 census.

The question of electing the congressmen-at-large was brought before the committee in a large number of letters sent committee members. The Marshall bill would reapportion the state so that Cleveland and several other large cities would obtain greater representation.

COURT DECISION IS BLOW TO ANTI-DRYS

Ruling of Supreme Tribunal Likely To End Prohibition Law Attacks.

By International News Service.

WASHINGON, Feb. 25 — The unanimity and vigor with which the supreme court reversed the Clark decision and affirmed that the eighteenth amendment is legally nailed into the constitution probably means the end of all such legal assaults on the validity of the prohibitory laws.

In the eleven years since prohibition, the supreme court has steadily returned decisions favorable to the drys and unfavorable to the opponents of prohibition. Twice now the highest court has sustained the validity of the amendment itself, and on numerous occasions it has upheld the constitutionality of the Volstead act, directly or indirectly.

Consequently, the opponents of prohibition were generally agreed today, as they studied the clear and vigorous language of the decision in the Clark case that it is hardly worth while to longer attack the problem through the United States supreme court.

There remain then, they agreed, but three avenues through which to seek corrective action: 1. Outright repeal of the amendment. 2. Revision. 3. Nullification.

The difficulties besetting either course are admittedly enormous—despite the every evident shift in popular sentiment away from prohibition in the last few years, and despite the equally evident failure of enforcement in large centers of population.

Wickersham Committee Member Declares Bootleggers Threaten Security.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 - Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., member of the Wickersham commission on law observance and enforcement, declared today that immense revenues of bootleggers threaten this country's social peace and security.

Anderson addressing the New York Merchants' association, referred to prohibition as "this highly emotional question." He emphasized he was speaking neither for nor against national prohibition.

"At a former period in our history," he said, "when the strain upon our social and political structure was much less severe than it is today, the prolonged agitation of the inflammable question of slavery under intemperate leadership on both sides threw us into an unnecessary war. So today, in the face of more dangerous conditions, the continued agitation of this highly emotional question in a spirit of intolerance may lead to disastrous consequences."

Anderson said the question challenges wets and drys, northerners and southerners, cities and rural communities, to find a solution "through understanding born of knowledge and faith born of love of our common country." He warned that the problem must be approached "in a broad spirit of tolerance."

TWO ATTEMPTS MADE ON PRESIDENT'S LIFE

Cuban Executive Escapes Efforts of Would-Be Assassins.

By The Associated Press.

HAVANA, Feb. 25. Two attempts upon the life of President Machado within two days have failed. A soldier stationed on top of the presidential residence has been arrested in one instance, while police have taken into custody a youth charged with the second attempt.

The first attempt was with a bomb which was lowered through a ventilating vent presumably into the president's bathroom where a fuse was to set it off at 4:30 a. m. Monday.

It failed because the vent was arranged so that the bomb stopped at the bathroom of the floor above, in the quarters of the president's son-in-law, Emilio Obregon. It exploded, doing considerable damage, but injuring no one. The soldier is said to have confessed.

The second attempt occurred during the presidential address at inauguration of the new $18,000,000 capitol yesterday. The president was making a plea for nation-wide peace when a youth was seen to pull a revolver from his pocket.

The action precipitated a near riot, but police rushed the youth from the crowd before he could fire.

SEEKS TRANSFER OF GIRL SLAYER'S CASE

Attorney Moves To Save Freda Daugherty from First Degree Charge.

By The Associated Press.

MARIETTA, O., Feb. 25—Freda Daugherty, 15-year-old girl wife, who has confessed jealousy of her husband led her to slay Mrs. Geraldine Harriman, may face a term in the Delaware home for girls instead of the death penalty.

Her attorney moved that the case be transferred to juvenile court when she was arraigned last night on a first degree murder charge and Judge Frank F. Fleming took the matter under advisement. She pleaded not guilty. If the case is transferred to juvenile court, she would not have to stand trial for her life.

Mrs. Margaret Treadway, sister of Freda, was expected to be removed to Zanesville, O., today from Parkersburg, W. Va., where she was arrested at the request of Ohio authorities on a charge of substituting for the 15-year-old girl in obtaining a marriage license a year ago. Ray Daugherty, young husband of the confessed slayer, also was wanted by Zanesville authorities.

Warren Daugherty, brother of Ray, and his wife were released after being held as possible accessories to the killing, which occurred in their home.

Daily Proverb—"No accidents are so unlucky that the prudent may not draw some advantage from them."

It is possible? Can this be sunlight we are seeing today?

Speaking of America, J. B. Priestley says: "You turn out every week at least three 'great American novels'." The trouble is that the country has been searching for 'em for the last five or six years and not one of them has turned up yet.

Alcohol poisoning killed 625 persons in New York City last year, and, in all, about 1,295 deaths were caused directly, or indirectly, by liquor. The great national reform certainly is levying a heavy toll upon humanity.

What would that great man, General George Washington have said, to say nothing of what he might have thought, had somebody told him 150 years ago that the day would come when the king of England in London would talk over the air with the Prince of Wales in Santiago, Chile? The world certainly has been coming along since the time of "The Father of His Country."

Announcement comes from Miami, Florida, that 100 women there have banded to raise the banner of the late Carrie Nation and clean up that city. If our memory serves us correctly, it wasn't a banner, but a hatchet, with which Mrs. Nation carried on.

It is estimated that a primary to be held in Barrien county, Michigan, next Monday, for the purpose of nominating a Republican candidate for the job of school commissioner, which pays $2,500 a year and for which there are four candidates, will cost the county $5,000. As a vehicle for burning up good money in one way or another, the primary is in a class by itself.

A bill to require the lapse of five days between the application for and the granting of a marriage license has passed the Iowa senate and is expected to pass the house. If the bill becomes a law, the economic situation in Council Bluffs, Iowa's Gretna Green, is liable to become something awful.

The tonnage of traffic through the Panama canal fell off thirteen per cent. in 1930 from that of the year before and there was a decrease of twenty per cent. under that of the preceding year in the tonnage through the Suez canal. Depression wasn't playing any favorites in 1930. The entire world felt its effects.

Looking to Four-Year Terms.

The proposal of Senator Robert A Taft, of Cincinnati, looking to four-year terms for all elective state officials, has received the approval of the Ohio senate as a non-partisan measure, but one vote being cast against it, and is now before the house for consideration. Should it receive the approval of the latter body, an amendment to the state constitution looking to the end indicated will be submitted to the voters of Ohio at next November's election for their determination. The proposed amendment would also remove certain constitutional restrictions as to the terms of certain county officers and empower the general assembly to fix the tenure of such offices at even numbered years.

There is much to be said for the proposal. With the primary in force, a candidate for elective state office is forced to make two campaigns with a resultant doubling of the physical, mental and financial strain which he would have to undergo under the old-time convention system. Under the two-year term plan, the candidate is hardly able to become acquainted with the details of his office before he is compelled, should he desire to succeed himself in office, to lay the groundwork for another campaign. As a result, his effectiveness as an official is naturally lessened in some degree, at least. If he is renominated and reelected, there may be justification for his effort in seeking office, but if he is defeated for nomination or for election for a second term, he can hardly be other than a loser in time, in effort, in money and in prestige as a result of his entrance into the field of politics as a candidate, and there have been cases, as is known, where the tenures of state officials have been limited to one term. A possibility such as this has kept many a good man from becoming a candidate for state office. The proposed amendment, in the event of its submission to and ratification by the voters, would obviate such a possibility and might result in the improvement of the personnel of state officials.

Yes, there is much to be said for the substitution of four-year terms for state officials for two-year terms, but there is always the fly in the ointment. When a state official proves inefficient or for any other reason undesirable in office, the two-year term offers an easy way for accelerating his way down the political skids.

Eighteenth Amendment Held Valid.

As generally anticipated, the highest judicial tribunal in the land has upheld the constitutionality of the eighteenth amendment. The eight associate justices of the United States supreme court were as one in supporting the appeal of the government from the recent decision of Federal District Judge William Clark, of New Jersey, who held that the amendment was invalid for the reason that it was ratified by state legislatures, whereas the principles of political science demanded that such amendments should be ratified by state conventions.

Mr. Hughes, it may be well to say, took no part in the matter because of having filed a brief in a prohibition case, previous to his appointment as chief justice of the United States, which in his judgment disqualified him for participation.

The decision of the court, delivered by Judge Roberts, makes manifest that the justices were far less impressed by the "principles of political science" than by the very plain language of Article V of the Constitution, which provides that amendments thereto shall be ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states or by state conventions in the same proportion of states. The court held that the language of the article is clear and entirely free from ambiguity; that there was no ground for the construction placed on it by the New Jersey jurist; that no limitation has been placed on the discretion of congress in deciding the mode of ratification and it closed its finding by stating that in its present decision it simply was reiterating a position taken by it eleven years ago when it had proclaimed the amendment valid.

While we who are not versed in the law may not appreciate what the demands of the principles of political science mentioned by Judge Clark may be, the most of us who have followed the proceedings of legislatures for any considerable number of years will be ready to agree with him that ratification of constitutional amendments by legislatures is far from ideal. All of us must be appreciative of the fact that legislative bodies, whether national or state, are far too easily influenced by the clamor of militant minorities, by the machinations of lobbies, by many agencies and considerations to make safe the entrusting of amendments which may take away from the people any of the rights or liberties which may be theirs under the Constitution.

But out here in Ohio, many of us will be inclined to feel that the New Jersey judge's alternative of state conventions for the ratification of constitutional amendments would be very much like a case of "out of the frying pan into the fire." Those of us who recall the make-up and the activities of the last Ohio constitutional convention and are more or less familiar with the handiwork it left as a reminder of its one-time being will hardly regard the plan of ratifying constitutional amendments by state conventions as wholly alluring.

In simple fairness and justice to the people of the United States there should be one way, and one way only, for the ratification of amendments to the federal Constitution which may take away or circumscribe their constitutional rights, and that would be by a direct majority vote of the people of the United States entitled to the right of suffrage.

This year's celebration of Washington's birthday anniversary was especially noteworthy in that it brought into the light, more than any similar celebration in decades, Washington the man rather than the mythical figure which has so long passed for our first president; and the man proved far stronger, and more inspiring than the mythical conception of him.

The New York City police graft investigation has brought to light the fact that a number of the city's policemen are partners in speakeasies which get their supplies in part from the stores of liquor seized by the police department. That's playing the vicious circle to the limit!

Out in Kansas City, Missouri, a woman is being tried on the charge of having killed her husband as a result of a quarrel, which had its inception when she raised his bid of two spades to four and he failed to make the contract. We have heard that players take contract bridge rather seriously, but this woman's course, if the charge against her is based on fact, seems to us to have gone to the extreme.

Provisional President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, of Peru, has withdrawn as a candidate for the presidency and is championing a new constitution. His course isn't wholly consistent with the recent announcement that the latest revolution there was a mere flash in the pan, speedily overcome.

Senator Cameron Morrison, of North Carolina, asserts that enough votes have been pledged to prevent the Democratic national committee from adopting a wet declaration at its meeting next month. Mr. Raskob should exercise care before putting the committee to the test. He came pretty close to scuttling the party in 1928. Perseverance on his part might finish the job by 1932.

Representative George H. Tinkham, of Massachusetts, has introduced a bill in the lower house of congress under the terms of which any sectarian lobby having its headquarters within half a mile of the national capitol may be declared a nuisance. If that doesn't start something over in Washington, it's hardly probable that anything will.

"There lies deep meaning," says Albert Einstein, "in the fact that the children of all civilized countries are so fond of 'playing Indian.'" The doctor here has offered food for serious thought. Civilization isn't so deep that we have utterly lost the instincts of savagery.

The head of the democratic political party of World war veterans in Germany is advocating a national petition asking President von Hindenberg to accept the life presidency after his term of office expires in April of next year. It would be hard to vision President von Hindenberg taking such an action save at the request of all the people of the Fatherland as expressed by their political parties.

Editorial Opinion.

CANADA'S DISCRIMINATION.

Canada is careful with reference to immigration coming to her shores. She desires and welcomes, worthy and worth-while settlers, but she sets her face inexorably against any kind and all immigration which might affect the welfare of her people, industrially or otherwise.

The Dominion just has deported 120 immigrant seekers of homes. They were adjudged as likely to become public charges. The larger good is more important in the eyes of the Dominion government than any claim of individual or individuals. She does not want, and will not have, criminals, invalids or those persons likely to become public charges. She will take no risks. She promptly deports any one who is found, even after a residence of five years, to come within the category of her immigration prohibitions.

This was the fate of 1,100 persons in 1929. An especially observant eye is being kept by the government at Ottawa on all newcomers in the present season of hard times. The Dominion is for Canada first. Why people come is their own business. The government assumes no responsibility after they do come.

It is a rational policy. People who are undesirables, or who may become such because of crime or disease or improper political activities, should be debarred from Canada and all the Americas. Worth-while immigration, within prudent limitations, will always be encouraged and welcomed in the United States and the Dominion.—Cincinnati Enquirer

LIQUOR AND PROSPERITY.

What becomes of the argument of the wets, that a restoration of the saloon will be the greatest boon possible for the farmer when one notes the prices prevailing for grain in Canada? Now our neighbors have plenty of booze. There is no Volstead act across the line, yet we find barley commanding the price of one cent per bushel. Ever since the adoption of prohibition in this country, the advocates of the saloon have cried out that a restoration of liquor to its throne would bring wonderful prosperity to the farm, would give employment to thousands and all our ills would be solved. But we note that in dry Mapleton barley is worth thirty times as much as in Canada, that even No. 3 oats bring four times the Canadian price, rye brings from three to eight cents per bushel against twenty-three here; wheat ranges from fifteen to thrity-three cents per bushel while our farmers are securing from fifty-one to sixty cents and Canadian butter sells for ten cents a pound. If these prices are a sample of the prosperity the wets have in view for the farmer, there should be no rush on the part of agriculturists to do away with prohibition.—Mapleton, Minnesota, Enterprise.

A Civil War Story of General Keifer.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

C. D. Campbell, long a close friend of General Warren Keifer, of Springfield, and himself a general in the civil war, once told an interesting story of an experience of General Keifer when, as a major of the Third O. V. I., he was campaigning in the early days of the Civil war in West Virginia. After the Battle of Rich Mountain, the union forces pushed on to Beverly, where they went into camp for the night. McClellan detailed Major Keifer as officer of the day, and looking about the little town that night the major found one house where the "Stars and Stripes" were floating. He called to inform occupants that he would station a guard to protect them if they wished.

He found only a Mrs. Arnold and her daughter, almost a young woman, in the house, and they declined the guard, saying that the flag amply protected them. She frankly stated that her husband and son were with the confederate army and that she had a brother who was a general in that army. This brother, she explained in answer to questions, was none other than Stonewall Jackson.

In spite of this family connection, Mrs Arnold said that she and her daughter were, and always had been, opposed to slavery and loyal to the old union.

Two years later, while the unit with which he was connected was campaigning in West Virginia, another Springfield man, Major Charles H. Evans, chanced to meet Mrs. Arnold's daughter, Miss Grace. He fell in love with her and they were married. He took his bride, this niece of General Jackson, to live in Springfield, and some years later Mrs. Arnold went there to make her home with them. Later, however, Mrs. Arnold returned to West Virginia, where she spent her few remaining days, and was buried there.

Lay Foundation for Health.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Children are the victims of common ailments, many of which are preventable. The contagious diseases of childhood are transmitted from one child to another. This can be avoided by proper care and much unnecessary suffering prevented.

Simple hygienic rules taught during childhood greatly influence the future health of the individual. It is believed by most authorities that the ideal place for this instruction is in the school.

I believe this is an excellent plan, but such teaching should not end there. It should be practised, emphasized and repeated at home. Home teaching is sometimes more convincing than the instruction received at school. Where the home environment is not as ideal as it should be, the instruction at school is vitally essential.

Children should be taught at an early age the value and use of the handkerchief. They should be instructed how to protect the nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing and given the reasons why.

They should be warned against the common habit of placing fingers and pencils in the mouth. Every child should be carefully instructed in the necessity of washing the hands with soap and water frequently during the day. This habit should be acquired as soon as possible. Everybody, young and old, should remember the necessity of having clean hands before eating.

Brushing the teeth upon arising and at retiring, should be made a part of the daily routine of every child. This responsibility should begin at as early an age as possible.

To insure health among our young, it is advisable that they be examined periodically. Strict attention must be given to posture. Ear, eye, nose, throat, dental and other possible defects, should be discovered as soon as possible. When these are corrected in early life, much undue and unnecessary suffering is escaped in later life

These are mere hints. But I do want you to know that the welfare of the child and the state of adult health are founded on the health practices of youth.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

H. D. M. Q—How can the habit of biting the nails be overcome?

A—Painting the nails with tincture of asafoetida—this has a most unpleasant taste and should be helpful in correcting the habit. In some cases the trouble is due to nervousness. Under these circumstances the nerves should have attention.

Our Neighbor, Eros.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The small heavenly bodies known as asteroids, of which more than 1,500 have now been listed, have a particular interest for us, chiefly because of their minuteness. The first asteroid, Ceres, was observed just 130 years ago. They range in diameter from about 480 down to three miles in diameter. For special reasons, the asteroid known as Eros possesses a value of exceptional astronomical possibilities. During the nights of January 30 and January 31 of the present year, Eros approached nearer to the earth than any heavenly body with the single exception of the moon.

In August, 1898, Dr. G. Witt, of Berlin, detected a "trail" on his photograph plate, indicating that an asteroid had been "trapped at last." It was first given the name 1898 D Q; but later, when its character as an asteroid was definitely established, it was given the name Eros and the number, 433.

It differs from the other asteroids, which are found to be between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter. Eros revolves almost entirely within the orbit of Mars. As this was the one discovered by Dr. Witt of the Urania observatory, some wag suggested that it be named Brevitas, as being the sole—discovery—of Witt!

Much interest was displayed in Eros at the time of its discovery and for some time afterwards, as it bade fair to reopen the question of solar parallax. A favorable opposition of Eros affords an opportunity for redetermining solar parallax, and in consequence arriving at a more accurate determination of the astronomical remic—the distance from the earth to the sun. It is said that Eros was accidentally caught on a photographic plate, at the Harvard College observatory, in 1892.

Although many photographs of Eros were made after its explicit discovery in 1898, they have not afforded sufficiently accurate data for a satisfactory determination of solar parallax. The observations made in 1900-1901, resulting in thousands of photographs, have, however, given us one of the most accurate values of solar parallax yet found. At that time Eros came within a distance from the earth of slightly less than 30,000,000 miles.

Eros is a tiny object no larger than fifteen miles in diameter. At its greatest distance, Eros is far beyond the orbit of Mars. During the last two days of January of the present year it was somewhere between 15,500,000 and 16,000,000 miles distant from us.

It appears, even through a small telescope, as a star of the seventh magnitude. An excellent diagram of its recently traversed path through the stars, drawn by the famous astronomer, Crommelin, is found in the astronomical work, "Splendour of the Heavens."

Eros presents a fine point-image, and may now be easily seen through a binocular. The astronomical unit is not known closer than within 100,000 miles. Astronomers at many observatories have been and are now busily watching Eros, in order to determine from the resulting data, more accurate information regarding solar distance, the earth's mass, the power of the moon's gravitation and other scientific puzzles. Eros spins about on its axis once in every five hours and sixteen minutes It will never again be as near to us as it now is until the year 1975.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Feb. 25—Jack Garner, that red-faced, peppery gentleman from Texas, who captains the Democrats in the house of representatives, put on his swallow-tail coat, boiled shirt and white tie the other evening and "stepped out."

And that, if you don't happen to know, is an extraordinary occurrence for the Hon. Jack He doesn't care for that sort of thing. Not that he is a social recluse exactly. He goes out occasionally, but these formal affairs have little appeal for him. In other words, the Hon. Jack is a bit "choosy" about what social dates he keeps.

Mrs. Garner, who acts as his secretary, long has had strict orders to send polite regrets to the many invitations he receives. As a result it is a sort of tradition around the capital that the Garners do not care for that sort of thing, and no one feels "put out" when they decline an invitation.

• • •

So when it became known that Garner would attend the President's annual dinner to the speaker of the house the society columns of the local newspapers made quite a fuss about it

"Representative Garner Breaks His Seclusion," was the way one headlined the event. "House Minority Floor Leader To Eschew His Rule for Fifteen Years To Attend Hoover Reception Tonight," announced another.

Some wags opined that perhaps the Hon. Jack wanted to get in practice. If the Democrats organize the seventy-second congress, he will be the speaker and the one feted at this state dinner next year instead of Nick Longworth.

But those who profess to know have only one explanation and they insist it is the correct one. Garner went to the White House dinner honoring the speaker of the house not to get practice, but because of his crony Nick Longworth.

• • •

Garner's friendship with Longworth dates from the time they first came to congress more than twenty-five years ago. Both were put on the foreign affairs committee. Garner was the last Democrat, Longworth the last Republican. They sat beside each other at meetings of the committee, and a friendship sprang up between the two that has extended to the present time.

"Darned peculiar that a silver-spoon aristocrat like him and one of the common people like me should hit it off," says Garner and then he adds with a grin, "but we've been trying to outsmart each other ever since."

But going to the White House is no new experience for Garner. He says the most pleasant experiences of his whole career occurred during his visits to the executive mansion.

"It was during the World war, when I had to go to the White House every night and discuss problems with President Woodrow Wilson. * * * We talked sometimes from 5 o'clock in the afternoon to 1 o'clock in the morning * * * I liked that fellow."

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

By HERBERT ADAMS

(Copyright, 1930, J. B. Lippincott Co.)

CHAPTER 25

"Seeds of Paradise"

HAD a bomb burst in the room Superintendent Richmond could not have been much more startled than he was at Jimmie's quiet but definite pronouncement. That Green had killed Miss Querd[illegible] was a solution that fitted in with all the known facts. The suggestion that it was incorrect was not only surprising, it was also unwelcome, for it meant not only that Richmond was wrong but also that if Green was the victim of an attempted murder, here would be a new problem to solve.

"I suppose you have reasons for what you are saying, Mr. Haswell?" His tone was cold.

"Quite so," said Jimmie coolly. "Let us deal, first, with Green's supposed attempted suicide. You [illegible] now had the chemists analysis of the poison that was used. Rather a rare and unusual poison is it?"

"It is, but I don't see how you can tell me as we had been careful to keep it in strict confidence."

"I will not only tell you what it is," answered Jimmie, "but I will tell you things about it you perhaps have not heard. The name given to it is perhaps Picrotoxin, an extract from the berry Cocculus Indicus, which yields a deadly crystalline poison."

Richmond's open-mouthed silence admitted the truth of the statement.

"A more poetic and perhaps more sinister name for the crystals was 'Seeds of Paradise.' At one time, but not now, they had a limited medical use, and a less legitimate use was discovered by corrupt brewers. In minute quantities they sharpen the flavor of beer. In slightly larger quantities they add to its intoxicating properties.

"The symptoms, too, are unusual. There is profuse perspiration and great abdominal pain, causing convulsions. Unconsciousness follows, but it is said that death has been delayed as long as 19 days, sometimes with intervals of confused consciousness."

"You have heard from our doctors," said Richmond shortly.

"I do not know your doctors and I did not know they had completed their analysis. The explanation is supremely important. When Constable Roscoe found Green in a dying condition he took away what he regarded as his confession, and the glass which still contained some of the stuff he had been drinking. Among the things he left behind was the bottle from which the drink had been poured. I took that bottle. It was practically empty, but not quite."

"I do not think you should have taken that, Mr. Haswell." Richmond's tone was a little offended. "I went to the place the next day myself, and it was gone."

"If I had left it, do you suppose it would have remained till you came?" There was poison in the small residue in the bottle. I sent it to a chemist and got his report this morning."

"How do you suggest it could have been done?" asked Richmond.

"That seems fairly obvious. Green had an occasional drink in his own quarters. Nothing could be easier than for some one to get a bottle of the same brand as the row on his mantel, or to borrow one of his, steam off the seal, unscrew the stopper and put in the poison. Then the stopper would be screwed in again and the paper re-stuck. The bottle replaced on the mantel will be opened and its poisonous contents taken in due course."

"But," said Richmond, "might not Green have put his poison in the bottle thinking it easier to mix in that way? You base your argument on the assumption that he would put it in the glass. Besides, you have to account for the confession in his handwriting."

"I admit the proof so far is not complete," said Jimmie. "I think the confession was forged beforehand and kept until Green was in such a condition that it could be placed by his side. I should not even be surprised if his finger prints were found on it."

"They were," said Richmond a little triumphantly. "And no others—except of course Roscoe's."

"A gloved left hand and a right hand used with care in writing would account for that. Then Green's inert fingers could be impressed."

"More theory!" observed Richmond.

"Green ate supper in the house and remained until about 8.30. It was 10.30 when we found him. If the confession was his, the ink would have been almost wet on the paper. I looked at it while Netherton was examining the patient. It had dried black as though written for at least 24 hours. What do you make of that?"

"It does not follow that he did not write his confession the day before. He might then hesitate over the decision to do away with himself."

"But the pen and ink were by his side," said Jimmie. "Why have them there if the confession was already written? You may say that the ink might not have been as dry as I thought. Then absolute proof would be lacking, but let's see if all the evidence together will not amount to proof.

"The confession was written on a sheet torn from his mileage book, when Green had note paper and envelopes on the shelf. It is a fair surmise that any one else writing a confession for him would have chosen paper peculiarly his — a sheet from the book that was always lying in his room.

"The ink on the nib of the pen was wet, while the writing was dry. I suggest that the person who placed the confession there dipped the pen in the ink to give realism, not supposing the discovery would be made until morning. You might also say that Green had started to add something to the note and changed his mind.

"So we fail of actual proof. But if we take all these things together: the poison in the bottle, the dry writing, the wet ink, the choice of paper—do we fail then?"

Richmond was not yet convinced and Jimmie asked to see the confession. Richmond opened the safe and handed the paper to him. It was penned in an uneducated hand, and if not the work of Green, was a fair imitation of his style.

While Richmond, at Jimmie's suggestion, was scrutinizing it, Jimmie unwrapped paper enclosing an ordinary pen. "This is Green's. Roscoe forgot to take it. Examine that nib carefully. Green always used a fine-pointed one, as all the entries in his book, even to the last day, show. The writing is like his, but try yourself to see how the upstrokes in that confession could be produced by a pen like this."

Richmond started copying a few of the fateful words. He compared the letters with the original and saw beyond question the thing was impossible. The upstrokes had been made with a broader nib. He was faced with a cumulative proof that he could not deny.

"Why did you not bring me this before?" he asked in a low tone.

"My case was not complete. It was only this morning that I got my chemist's report. Had there been no poison in the bottle it would have been impossible to show how it could have been swallowed by Green, except intentionally. I concluded there must be poison in the bottle."

While he was speaking, the buzzer on the superintendent's desk sounded. He took off the receiver and listened. "It's the hospital," he told Jimmie anxiously as he waited for the connection. Doubtless it was about Green. If only he could speak. That would clear things!

To Be Continued

An audience to face, stimulates some to brilliancy while only a pen or pencil in hand stimulates others, and can a typewriter do that?

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.—Adv.

Jubilee's Pardner

• • •

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Wednesday and it wasn't cold when I woke up and told Jubilee to hop out. He hopped out and I was laying there just about half awake and half asleep, when he got hold of the cover of the bed and ran out in the hall with it and I was laying there without any more clothes than a rabbit hardly, and it wasn't so warm but what I got covered with goose pimples. This is the way a dog is. A fella does all he can for him and then he plays him a trick like that. I bet when I got his rope out of the attic and let him down so hard that his buster bumped the ground so hard it made the spine of his back double up like a measuring worm he made up his mind he couldn't munky with me and get away with it. But when I had got on my short britches and other things and got downstairs and out with the pail he was racing around the yard with his mouth open and his tongue out looking as happy as if it was fun to be a dog. I bet he is right. A dog don't have no cows to milk and no hands to wash and no britches to put on. But I am glad I have got britches to put on. I ought to be. Anybody ought to be.

After I got in the house from milking, my grandfather was standing in the door when I got down to feed my face and he turned and came in and said "The sap is climbing up in the trees," and I got up and started to go to the door, and my father asted where I was going and I said I was going to tell him to get down out of our tree, and my father asted me what I thought my grandfather meant, and I said he meant the Lost Bag of Tripe was climbing up in our tree, and everybody roared. Then my father said he meant the juice was climbing up inside of the tree. Everyone thought it was funny but me.

My grandfather had got out his wading boots and set them by the stove in the kitchen and he said he was going to try for bass. I told him I hoped he would get some, and he thanked me and we all went to school, and when I got home to milk the cows my mother asted me if I had done anything to my grandfather's boots, and I hadn't. She said that when he put them on someone had pored syrup in them, and when he got them off and was jumping around his feet were slippy and he skidded and hurt his plumbago so he didn't go fishing after all. She said the syrup might have been in all winter, so it was hard to tell who done it. I said I was sorry, and my ant said it made her so mad she could hardly contain herself, and my grandfather said he was supprised that she cared what people done to him. Then she said that she was thinking it was a shame to waste good [illegible] way, when [illegible] just as [illegible]

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Despite Lillian's Diatribe on Dicky's Faults Madge at Heart, Realizes the Wisdom of Her Words.

MY CHEEKS were blazing as Lillian finished her tirade against Dicky. It is not pleasant to hear one's husband referred to as a "pampered pup," even if the person applying the epithet is his best friend and yours and has only your best interest and his at heart in making the speech. Part of my fury I knew was caused by my own guilty consciousness that deep down in my heart I recognized the truth of part, not all, I vehemently [illegible] of her strictures.

There was a special sting for me in the last part of her speech, also. "His standard of value for anything," Lillian had said calmly, "is the difficulty he has in obtaining it or keeping it." Did she mean—my eyes were suddenly hostile and she put up her hand laughingly as if to avert a blow.

"Don't take me so literally," she said laughing. "We've thrashed this out before and you ought to be able to translate my rhetorical extravagance into everyday English. I don't mean that Dicky fails to value you or that you haven't always been the supreme woman of his life. You could keep him going on loving you if you abandoned your career and start[ed] [illegible] the hardest little hausfrau ideal. But let me tell you something, he won't be half as interested in you after a time, and that, if I know you, will be simply death to you."

I shivered involuntarily, for I knew only too well the truth of her words. Always during our marriage my pride has been that I knew I appealed to my husband mentally as well as emotionally and that I was his comrade in all senses of the word.

"You see," Lillian went on, patently warming to her work, "yours is an unusual case. Heaven knows I'm not advocating the general combining of children and a career. In the case of the ordinary woman with no special outstanding talent, which puts her into the ranks of big earners, it works havoc all around for her to leave her home to an underpaid, inefficient hireling as she must, and work at some outside job for just about enough money to clothe herself and pay the expenses of the hireling. There are two reasons, of course, which justify any woman in getting out and earning money outside her home—grim necessity, which, let me whisper, is behind the careers of most women, and the presence in her home of some stranded woman relative, loving and efficient, who must be supported, but whose only economic value is her ability to keep house and raise children, and whose traditions forbid her doing it in the home of anyone save that of a near relative.

"Career" a Fighting Word

"'Career' is a fighting word to me anyway," Lillian went on, and I bent a deferential ear, for if any woman is authorized to speak upon that subject it is she, highly successful illustrator and advertising writer at the very top of her profession, who has managed to bring up a daughter most ideally. "It is abused so often by some half-baked woman who deems making a home for her husband and children the lowest profession in the world instead of the highest as it is, and who gets out of what she calls the deadening drudgery of domesticity—oh! yes, I've heard 'em—by leaving her home to anybody she can get and 'expressing herself' at something which usually does not bring her in enough money to buy her food and lodging."

She stopped short, struck her hands together and gave a short little contemptuous laugh.

"See the nice lady riding her hobby horse," she intoned. "Will she fall off? Yes she will fall off! Does she deserve to fall off? Indeed she does for being a long-winded nuisance."

"Oh! go on!" I urged as well as I could for laughing—Lillian adds risible-stretching mimicry to her other talents—

"All right, we'll return to our sheeplets," she said. "As I was saying when I—interrupted myself, yours is a special case and you've got to consider it as such. You have a combination that's Heaven sent; first, a most unusual talent—let me tell you that to get Philip Veritzen, dean— and prime minister of Broadway, to be asking for more when he's seen only two acts of a play is some achievement, Lady—you can put that in capitals. Second, you have a husband whose temperament is so constructed that he think he wants a domestic wife with no interests outside himself and his children, but who—make no mistake—is going to be bored stiff if he gets one. Third, you have a kinswoman, who is probably the best nurse in the world, bar none, and who, as far as physical care of any human being goes can tie one hand behind her and beat you or me, or any four like us. Finally you have a temperament yourself that's going to give you a lot of trouble if you don't exercise the brain the Lord gave you. You'll rust out, turn sour like milk in a thunderstorm—pile up the similes and mixed metaphors yourself. My mouth has to have a rest."

She flung herself back in her chair, while I felt that I had just been put through an electric wringer and put out to dry. Most of her arguments were sound I knew, yet my instinct told me there were flaws if I could find them. Without stopping to consider my words I voiced the first one that came to me.

"But Lillian, are you sure that Philip Veritzen really thinks—that his judgment may not be——" I floundered miserably.

"You mean he may be biased because he is in love with you?" she queried coolly. "But he isn't any more."
